He could, on suitable occasions, forget that he was a sworn member, and we can't tell, when ... e read a depunciation of Know-Nothingism from one of these old line Abolitionists, that there is any honsly in it; and we have strong reason for suspicion. The close alliance between them and the Know-Nothings, their support of the same candidates, their meeting in the same Conventions, are facts that can't be well explained if they disagreed on the great issue of slavery.

Chase, the present candidate for Governor of Ohio, and one who belongs to the old line Abolitionists, and who is one of the supposed opponents of Know-Nothingism, lately made a speech in the interior of Ohio, and his organ, the State Journal, thus reports him :

The term "countrymen," in Know-Nothing parlance, signifies members of the Secret Order. All native-born uon-conformists are classed with the foreign party. The application of this sentiment is therefore clear, and when used in reforence to the occasion to which it applies, as infamous as it without the least fear whatever of any nnpleasant effect.

This medicine is composed of articles of the primest and purest quality, and is always made by the proposet for in person, after the established forms of pharmacy (which cannot be said of the many Tonics now flooding the Western and Southwestern country), and in this respect alone is rendered greatly superior to the remedies usually prepared and sold in the country.

By 1's aperient and powerful disphoretic proporties, added to its Tonic qualities, it is rendered eminently superior to quimine and other remedies as a general and oppular Tonic in all cases whatever where Tonics are proper to be administered. The proprietor therefore respectfully invites practitioners and the public generally to give it but a fair trust, and they will then be convinced of its great superiority over all other remedies now in use for the purposes specified.

Persons living in districts of country subject to Ague and Fever, Childs and Fever, or Billions Severs, would over all to the proprietor has now in his possession thousands.

Desperate Assault at the Five Points. -- Rev. L. M. Pease Attacked.

Are the Five Points reformed? Not altogether. itness the following narrative of an attack upon ev. L. M. Pease, of the Five Points mission, which took place yesterday:
Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock, as Rev. L.
M. Pease was standing in the street, at "Cow Bay," on the Points, a brickbat was flung at him from the top of a house by one of the Five Point thieves, but as it fortunately missed him, a bottle was then flung, which also missed. Mr. Pease immediately procured an officer, went to the house, and with his assistance searched the house all over, as well two or three others in the vicinity, but could not find the scoundrel who flung the missiles.

Mr. Realt, an assistant of Mr. Pease, however, was standing on the doorstep of the House of Industry, and perceived a man hiding behind the chimney of the house on the roof. He gave the alarm at once, and the man made off and slid down through a scruttle hole in the roof to the room below. through a scuttle-hole in the roof to the room below, whence the officer and Mr. Realf followed him, and found bith under a bed. He got out when spoken to, and brandishing a knife swore he would not be taken by any one. Mr. Realf, however, flung himself on the tellow, and in the scuffle the knile fell. The officer then seized him also, and both dragged him down the starrs. Here he made a desperate esistance, tearing the coat of Mr. Realf into shred resistance, tearing the coat of Mr. Realf into shreds and biting him in the arm, inflicting a severe and ugly would. While taking him along, five or six of the Five Points' ruffians set upon Mr. Realf and gave him severe blows about the face and body. It length, alter a struggle of nearly half an hour, they encoceded in lodging him in the Tombe. Before being locked up, however, he made a sudden spring at Mr. Pease, swearing he would tear his b—y liver out, but the officer was too quick for him, and a prisoner who had given himself up for d the response of Gov. Powell, several addresses esponse to toasts were made, upon the call of audience. As we observed yesterday morn-, these addresses were too good to be lost, and give several of them this morning :

MR. BULLITT'S SPEECH MR. CHAIRMAN: - I believe I can say with truth hat the city and county candidates, who were de-cated on the 6th of last August, have felt far less telt upon such occasions. Such consideration were in a great measure excluded by stronger feelings, cansed by the extraordinary events of that ay. The sun that witnessed our definitions personal annoyance and regret than are usually the laws and constitution of our country trampled in the dust—beheld the blood of citizens flowing in the streets. Horror, and pity, and indignation left but little room in our hearts for those leeling, of mortification and discomfiture which usually disturb the breasts of defeated candidates. We have the satisfaction of knowing that our friends stood by us faithfully. Whatever regrets we have felt have been fully shared by them. They also share the satisfaction which each of us derived from the reflection that we did our duty in a noble cause and feil battling for the constitution of our country and the rights it guarantees to all.

I can also say for myseli, and I believe I can say for all of the "defeated candidates," that we derive feelings of profound satisfaction from the fact that we have been able to come here this day with the say of the say with the say of the sa out crutches, and with skulls unbroken, as able in ody, as willing in mind, and as resolved in our body, as willing in mind, and as resolved in our hearts to do justice to your elegant hospitalities as any gnest who sits at your board.

Mr. Chairman, the sentiment that called me to the floor asserts that we were defeated by violence and fraud. It is unquestionably true that fraud and round. It is unquestionably true that fraud and violence, deeply planned fraud, premoditated and organized violence, were used against us. Now, however, our opponents assert that they could have and would have defeated us if every vote has been fairly polled. But it surely does not them, after having used such means for the purpose of defeating us, now to assert that they could have accomplished their purpose without resorting to those means. If so—if they could have defeat ed us in a fair contest—then they occupy the atti-tude of men who plunged into crime merely for the sake of infamy. After Sampson had been captured by means of fraud and treachery, the Pullistines, no doubt, beasted that they could have whipped him any how : but the world will ever maintain the opinion that Sampson would have overcome all his foes if they had met him in fair aght: and such must be the verdict of the world with reference to our contest in this city, and in this Congressional District.

Sir, there is more of strongth, as well as of hon-or, in such a defeat than in such a victory. A ous warrior of the olden time, after winning hard-fought battle, exclaimed with anguish tha another such victory would destroy him. One such victory as that of the 6th of August will prove sufficient for the destruction of Know-Nothingism in Kentucky. The party has "Americanized" out State by restoring her aboriginal name, "the dark and bloody ground." Its first triumph will be it-last. Its victorious banner will be turned into a winding sheet. Its wedding garment will be it-funeral shrond. The fire lighted by its incendia-ries has kindled another flame, of another kind, but not less fierce and withering. The victors of the 6th of August have yet to feel the fire that burns in the hearts of the masses of the people We await the coming of that hour, knowing tha those who "sowed the wind must reap the whirl As patriots, not as avengers, we await th e ag f hal ar. Though we have been over n was o the dire necessity of living Revenge might be worth living as nothing else for which to hope a h v a gher and nobler object—the pre titutional liberty, civil and reli to hope, to live, and to struggle That siring I not be abandoned until crowned D. t justice and patriotism, like the will guide the tempest that is destined to over our adversaries. With hearts unconqu and with constantly increasing strength, we confidently look forward to the day when we shall be able to overthrow the Philistines, without pulling down a single pillar of the noble structure erected by our forelathers for the protection of every citi zen, native or naturalized, that stands upon Ameri ican soil. And when that day shall come, as come it will, you may rest assured, sir, that our truum phal march will not be over the bodies of slaugh tered citizens, nor illumined by the terches of in

THE ANTI-KNOW NOTHING WHIGS: - A new contingent to the Democratic forces, Soldier whose patriotic allegiance to their country, no bribes could weaken. In 1856 our allied army will carry by storm the fortress of political intolerance and religious bigotry.

Speed, Eaq., being loudly called, rose and in his uarled from some mountain height. At first it may move slowly, but with each revolution its raceful and eloquent style said : MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN: Permit me, behalf of the anti-know nothing Whigs, to nder our thanks for the delicacy of the senti-ents contained in the teast just read. It is to inferred from the toast that the Whigs who have lately acted with the Democratic party, if they think proper, after the great battle of 1856, form themselves again into a party upon the old issues. For myself I can say, and I think I may say the same for my brother Whigs here, that it we continue to feel as happy as we now do, we never will desire to part with our present com-

The language of the sentiment just read has been suggested, no doubt, by the present condition of the present Powers of Europe. On the plains of the Crimea we see the Frenchman and the Englishman, the Sardinian and Circassian, allies of the Tarks, waging a great war to humble the pride and reduce the power and pretensions of the Emperor of Russia. When their object shall have been accomplished, each of those allied armies will return to their several homes, never more to hear the language or see the faces of their late brothers in arms. It is not so with the Anti-know-Nothing Whigs. At our firesides, at our homes we felt and saw the hideous monster of religious bigotry and intolerance stalking through the land. In obedienec to duty we stepped into the ranks that were being arrayed against the monster. We asked not who were to be on our right hand or on asked not who were to be on our right hand or on our left land; or who were to be our Leutenants or Captains or Generals. Duty bade us fight the hideous monster and we obeyed. On looking about us after so taking our position we did not find ourselves among strangers, people of a different land different language and different homes.—

They were our relatives, our friends, our neighbors, those whom we were used to see in our daily walks, our highest and hy our firesides. This of itin our business and by our firesides. This of it-self forces a doubt, whether after the great battle shall have been fought and won, we can part. The Democratic party has a history old and glorious, long before our connection with it. But gentle-men, the waters of the little rivulet that falls into the Unio below y ur falls, flow on gladsome and rej ng in the beanty and magnificence of the Fream, and as much so as the waters that come rom the highest fountain of the Alleghany. Permit me thus, in conclusion to say, that so long as the Democratic party has for its aims as now the good of our country, and its means are open and honorable, we are not Englishmen or Frenchmen, Sardinians or Circassians, nor yet Turks-but Democrats.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY: - There is no word as toleration in the vocabulary of free-

The foregoing toast having been drunk, Mr. Holt in response to the call of the meeting, rose and spoke as follows: Mr. President: Would that I could in fitting terms acquit myself of the task which your kind partiality has assigned me, and that I could express too how deeply I feel the compliment of being called on to respond to the sentiment to which you have just given so flattering a reception. While, however, I cannot do this and must beg that you will sead on me for a thrinking from an attempt at will pardon me for shrinking from an attempt at anything like a set speech on this occasion, I can-not do less than say, that in my humble judgment, no truer, no nobler sentiment, none more precions to freemen, than that which has just been an-nounced to us, could be uttered by numan lips.— We have all imbibed it, as it were, from our mo-ther's milk; and among the rich jewels which cluster about the heritage of the revolution, there is none brighter, none more truly priceless than this. Its announcement too, at this moment, is not the less musical to us, because there is still ringing in our ears the insolent shout of its brutal foe—a foo lized in our midst, or still lingering with longing of whose organization may well be termed the Mormonism of political philosophy—because like that weeked delucion in religion, it has gone back and back into ages and lands of darkness and of crime, in search of the principles on which it is founded and by which it professes to be governed. That amount occurred the professes to be governed. That amount occurred the weight of the principles on which it is founded and by which it professes to be governed. Allow me then to add, that no man can view with more unmixed horror than do I, the remorseless crusade now being prosecuted from one end of the Union to the other, against our neighbors, our fellow citizens, the Catholics; and through them against all religious freedom. I repeat it emphatically, through them against all religious freedom; because in this matter, we are all, Protestants and Catholics, embarked in the same ship, upon the same great bottom. The Protestants nay sneceed in scuttling that ship, and thus for a time overwhelm their Catholic neighbors, but they may rest assured that the same enguling wave that takes the Catholics to the bottom, will in due time carry them there also. They are drugging to the brim with poison a cup which they themselves may yet have to drink to its dregs. In the blindness of bigotry, like Sampson of old, they have laid hold upon the pillars of the temple of religious liberty, and would drag them to the Allow me then to add, that no man can view guifing wave that takes the Catholics to the bottom, will in due time carry them there also. They are drugging to the brim with poison a cup which they themselves may yet have to drink to its dregs. In the blindness of bigotry, like Sampson of old, they have laid hold upon the pillars of the temple of religious liberty, and would drag them to the ground, in the hope that the Catholics may be crushed by the fall. They should remember that Sampson's own body was found a mangled corse in the ruins which he himself had made.

Mr. President.—It is not uncharitable to say that this organization is little less than a treasonable attempt to destroy one of the most hallowed fruits of the Revolution—the right of every man, free from responsibility to any earthly tribunal, to worship the Almighty according to the dictates of his wn conscience. It is a ruthless intrusion into the

It is a ruthless intrusion into the oly of holies of your political sanctuary, which ll parties and sects of every hne and aim, have and superstition, have amid the flames and tor-ments unutterable, been hurried into eternity, be leard to-day, in tones londer than the echoing hunder, they would call upon the Protestant oppulation of this country to beware, how hey nuchain in their midst the demon of reli-

It is a demon whose foot prints have ever been the foot prints of rime, and which scoring its desolations into the beautiful earth into a smoking, illuminated hell. We had hoped and fondly trusted that our fathers had chained this demon in that sublime fortress, the Federal Constitution—not for a thousand years out forever. Wee, wee unspeakable betide that recreant son of the republic, who would break or impair one link of that mighty chain. It were tter for him and for the race to which he belongs But they respond to us that they intend no pro-cription for religion's sake, but seek only to ex-lude from office those misguided citizens who hold that their temporal allegiance is due to the Pope of Rome and not to the authorities of this republic.

miserable and most shallow | retext. Do know that the national platform adopted at Phila delphia in June last, proscribes all Catholics, without any reference to the question whether they acknowledge a civil allegiance to the Pope or not, and that the Catholic delegation from Louisiana was excluded from the halls of the Convention olely because they were Catholies, and that no inniry was made as to whether they owned this or he l'apal Government to be entitled to their obelience? And do we not know that an overwhelmng majority, if not the whole Catholic population of this country, utterly deny the faith imputed to hem on this point, and that the l'ope with his ardinals and other high officials has again and again declared that the Papal Government has no athority to interfere with the ci vil affairs of other ations? And lastly, do we not know that the tractice of the Papal Government, so far as this conntry is concerned, has been in strict accordance with this declaration—that no interference in our emporal affairs, State or National, has been attempted, nor even alleged, or even suspected? It requires no small amount of charity and credulity oo, to believe that this is a mere political issue, and that the safety of the republic and not the ownfall of a particular religious faith, is the aim the organization. But laying their hands, red though they be, on heir bosoms, they tell us that they find there none f the fierce throbbings of the bigotry which prompted the persecution of other ages, and that they know themselves incapable of offering vio-ence to the person or property of their neighbor occause of his peculiar religious faith. This de-daration seems strange, when read in the lucid light of those conflagrations of which this city has necently been the sad witness. But supposing it to be sincerely made, how little do they know of themselves and how imperfectly have they sounded hese depths of passion at the bottom of which this nonster lies concealed—tranquil it may be now. out ready at any moment to be roused into action dave they not already convulsed society to its foundations? ed becomes more and more rabid, until finally, bounding from precipice to precipice, gathering velocity and momentum at every step, who shall stay its heedless career or portray the desolations of its path way? So with bigotry. They begin gently at first—with exclusion from office toay: but in this free country they have no more right to exclude their neighbor from effice, because he is a Catholic, then they have to burn him at the stake for the same cause. The violation of natural and constitutional law is quite as manifest in one case as in the other. They exclude from office to-day—they will exclude from suffrage to-morrow; and as their passions are inflamed by the conflict, other and heavier penalties will follow each other in fearfully rapid succession—fines, imprisonment, confiscation, exile, and finally, the denoument which has ever marked this terrific tragedy—the faggot and the stake. They need not start at this picture. The estimate which I have thus pronounced of them is not drawn from any personal observation of their daily walk and conversation, for I know that as yet they have not gained a theatre of action on which these demoniac passions could be fully developed, though some with outstretched hands are seen striving to reach one. But in the Mirror of History, I see those hearts which they deem so innocent and so gentle distinctly reflected with all their capabilities of evil. You protestants who profess to believe that the men who kindled the fires of Smithfield, live still in their Catholic descendants, I tell you that the men who burned Servetus and scattered his ashes on the winds because his faith in regard to the Trinity was not orthodox, live also in their Protestant descendants. Temptation, opportunity, power alone are wanting to prove this. Apart from the shocking injustice, the enormity of proscription for religion's sake, I wonder that men do not tremble and quail before the awful impiety of thus thrusting themselves into the stead and room in gross error since the 4th of July 1776. If it be true, then our revolutionary fathers, instead of being lofty, self-sacrificing patriots, were but political buccaneers—the revolution itself was but a marauding expedition upon a gigantic scale; and that immortal declaration of human rights, which we have been accustomed to regard as steeped in and radiant with eternal truth, is but a transparent humbug—a miserable farce.

It is better the to be used to the one he has sustained as clerk, which will be sufficient for all ordinary purposes. The first clerk is G. W. Rausman.

The One of our Pittsburg exchanges of the Sth, says that Captain B. F. Hutchison's new hull arrived at the landing our Thursday evening. She will be a side-wheel boat, of ample power, and, we think, great speed. Length, 180 feet; beam, 36 feet; and 6 feet hold. Her features of this new organization is the impenetra-trable mystery which hangs alike over its origin and over all its operations. In the better days of the republic, when neighbors differed with each other upon great political questions, they met and frankly discussed the matter together. All parties stood out proudly in the open day, and the sword of conflict, if I may use the figure, in a spirit of chivalry gleamed in the broad light of Heaven. This is the first attempt at a political organization which clothes itself with night as with a garment, and, bandit-like, strikes in the dark with its muffled stilettoes.

Not longer to detain you, Mr. President, with these disjointed remarks, permit me to add, that in the untowed circumstances which surround ns, and in the deplorable events of which we have been witnesses, there is nothing that should dis-conrage us—nothing that should strike with dismay our foreign friends, whether they be natura-lized in our midst, or still lingering with longing eyes on the shores of the old world. In that au-

"log" of the Wm. Baird;

We saw very few Indians on our upward trip, but on our returning to St. Louis we saw numerous bands at different points. A party were swimming their horses across theriver at D'Auquicourt. Three of the number came on board, and were, in appearance, friendly. They wished to smoke—"big I dian, Sioux!"—but we could not understand them; gave them something to eat. At Vermilion river, a large body of warriors fired ahead of the yawl. We had a red flag flying. When the boat came up, they fired over and astern of her. We heard at Omaha that the Sioux had killed the Chief of the Omahas and five warriors, and were very troublesome. Also, that the Omahas were all leaving the Blackbird Hills.

NEW STEAMER JACOB POE .- Another beautiful specimeu of architecture bearing the above name was at the wharf this morning. The hull was built at Freedom-156 feet in leugth; beam 30 feet; hold 5 feet; cylinders 14 inches in diameter, with 4 feet length of stroke; 2 boilers 18 Inches in diameter, and 28 feet long, furnished with a loctor, fire engine, all the usual a ecompaniments—also, with a nigger for holsting freight. The cabin is a speci-men of the very best workmanship.

The Jacob Poe was built under the superintendence of Capt. Stewart, her commander, and is named after one of the best steamboatmen in the West-a descendant of the celebrated Adam Poe, who had the desperate fight on the Ohio river with the celebrated Indian "Big Foot," during the time of the Revolution. We like the name thus thrusting themselves into the stead and room of the Almighty, and claiming to judge those consciences and hearts whose secrets are known only to him who made them.

I said this was an attempt to destroy one of the most hallowed fruits of the American war of Independence; I would repeat it with emphasis. If the leading principles of this organization be true, then the political action of this country has been in gross error since the 4th of July 1776. If it be true, then our revolutionary fathers, instead of ably known. We have no doubt his popularity as com-mander will be equal to the oue he has sustained as ROBBERY ON THE STEAMER ISAAC NEWTON.—An extensive robbery was committed early this morning on board the steamer Isaac Newton while on her way to this city. The clerk, Mr. W. II. Colgrove, left the office for a few minutes about daylight, during which time some person entered the window of the office and took from the drawer money in gold and bills, to the amount of $4,500. Of this amount $983 belonged to Mr. Colgrove. The robbery was discovered immediately on Mr. Colgrove returning to the office, and arrangements were made to discover the perpetrators of the robbery on arriving at the city. As the steamer neared the landing a boat was sent ashore for officers. Mesers. Craft and Welsh, of the First district polices, went aboard and arrested fifteen persons on suspicion, all of whom were searched, most of them did not have money on their persons in simhleient amounts, or of such a denomination, to justify their being held. One man, named Joseph Dugan, had a loaded pistol on him. He, with another man, who gave his name as James llarris, were taken to the Chief's Office. A colored man, a passenger, was one of the parties arrested. He was locked uplin stateroom No. 41, but while the officers were searching some of the others, a waiter unlocked the staterom and allowed the colored man to escape.

Dugan and Harris were taken before Justice Osborne, but there being no evidence to justify their commitment.
